As a dedicated Sales Representative, Jason Thomas brings a wealth of expertise to the table, specializing in providing top-notch customer service and technical support to his customers. One of Jason's key strengths lies in his ability to troubleshoot problems in the field effectively. Whether it's addressing technical issues or resolving operational challenges, he tackles each situation with a strategic mindset and a customer-centric approach.

With a keen understanding of the mulch colorant industry, Jason is not just a Sales Representative; he's a reliable partner dedicated to the success and efficiency of his customers' businesses. His commitment to excellence, technical proficiency and unwavering customer support make him a valuable asset in the industry.

During Jason's tenure at ChromaScape, he has gained comprehensive insights into various aspects of the business. He has handled order entry in the service department, conducted quality control in the lab, collaborated with logistics for timely deliveries and traveled to the field to optimize customer business relationships. His experience reflects a holistic understanding of the company's operations, emphasizing relationship-building and customer support.

Jason has lived in Ohio since 1980, when his family moved from England. He cherishes moments with his wife Jen and their two sons, often taking golf cart rides with their dog Gary. They relocated to Vermilion, Ohio three years ago and enjoy spending quality time by Lake Erie with friends. Jason is proud of his oldest son who recently became a Cleveland firefighter, and the other who is currently in school pursuing the same profession. Despite enduring the ups and downs of being a Cleveland Browns fan since 1980, Jason remains a devoted supporter. Additionally, he enjoys sharing and hearing a good joke.
